MESSAGE FROM THE EDITORIAL BOARD

Dear colleagues and friends,

The content of this newsletter will allow you to enter and participate in the associative life, as well as our association's actions and projects.

I would like to thank the entire "Weavings" working group, in particular the editorial secretaries, Diana Hidalgo and Luisa Moi.

There are numerous scientific and administrative developments that we would like to convey to you, which will be announced in part by Anna Nicolo, president of the IACFP.

The convocation of an Extraordinary General Assembly will allow the association to be democratized by opening the doors to all colleagues interested in the field of couples and families. The proposal to reduce the fee for all members to €40 and for students in training to €15 will be discussed.

Another good news is the redistribution of positions on the Board of Directors, whereby young colleagues prepared to energize the present and open up to the future of our association have been appointed: a new general secretary (Sara Gonzalez de Pablos), a new treasurer (Saida Sid) ; and a new scientific secretary (Cristina Calarasanu).

Expanding the Scientific Council to include linguistic commissions will allow the launching of regional scientific conferences in 2024 and international congress in 2025.

The Study Center-the operational arm of the Scientific Council- has 10 international clinical and research work groups whose themes and arguments we present . We welcome 4 new groups. All groups are semi-open for members of our association who can present their candidatures by writing to the coordinator. New topics can also be proposed.

The international journals network have expanded significantly and as our work progresses, many other journals have expressed their interest. We present their latest editions.

We plan to create a pilot writing workshop in 2024 for IACFP members to collaborate in the creation of articles that help with clinical development and professional growth.

Finally, our affection and recognition to three colleagues who have been taken from us this year, Roberto Losso, Eduardo Grinspon and Olga Correa Ruiz, with whom we have shared scientific exchanges and moments of great viability.

We hope you enjoy reading this issue. For issue 3, which will be published in May, you can send us any information you would like to see added after 30 March 2024 to :aipcf.centre.etudes@gmail.com

We wish you a good end of the year 2023, wishing peace for everyone, particularly countries that suffer from wars.

LETTER TO IACFP MEMBERS

Dear colleagues,

I am writing to you because I would like to inform you of the intense work we have done with some members of the Board of Directors in this period, from the debut of my presidency until today.

Regrettably, in the last few months several people of great importance to our association have passed away: Roberto Losso, dean of our association and founding member, was a great clinician who delved deeply into the topics of myth and couple work. Olga Correa, a brilliant and intelligent colleague with whom I had fruitful exchanges in the past, has also passed away. Sonia Kleiman, a courageous woman, former president of the IACFP, university professor, she has studied link theory in particular and was director of training at the Italian Hospital. We also lose Eduardo Grinspon, who leaves us his depth in clinical material, his great psychotherapeutic involvement, a great thinker from many referential schemes, among them Racamier and Roussillon. We also note the absence of David Maldavsky, a professional of great creativity who developed the David Liberman Algorithm (ADL) and psychoanalytic links psychopathology. Invaluable colleagues, masters and founders of the IACFP. We will try to remember them both on our website and in the conferences we organize.

The intense work we have carried out has concerned many key points of the IACFP. First of all, it is important to define the number and the name of the members of the IACFP.

Treasurer Rosa Jaitin and assistant treasurer Saïda Sid, together with other colleagues such as Irma Morosini and our secretary, are working hard on this point.

The difficult economic situation, determined by the COVID pandemic, has forced us to reduce our expenses. We have decided to renew our website and we have chosen a Portuguese webmaster, equally brilliant but more economical. We have high expectations of him, who has just started working.

The board appointed Cristina Calarasanu as scientific secretary of the IACFP and we have decided to have 3 sub-commissions, one in English, one in French and one Spanish-Portuguese. The commission and the board will work with me to organize regional conferences to increase participation in the IACFP and to make us more and more known.

Sara González de Pablos is the new General Secretary. Two members of the Board of Directors have resigned and I invite you to send your applications to fill these two positions.

Maria Inês Assumpção Fernandes, former president of our association, will work with me as an advisor. This makes me very happy, as her presence will enrich me with her experience and knowledge.

We have decided to convene an EXTRAORDINARY GENERAL ASSEMBLY for next Sunday, December 17th, from 4:00 to 7:00 p.m. (Italian schedule), to discuss a reduction of dues and costs to favor colleagues in your associations.

We hope that all of you will help us to resume an ever richer scientific and associative life.

Although interest in family and couple psychoanalysis is growing in many associations around the world, the IACFP remains the oldest association that allows exchanges between psychotherapists of different nationalities and languages.

Best regards,

Anna Maria Nicolò
President of the IACFP

The Study Center plays a key role in promoting academic collaboration and research, working in close partnership with universities and the scientific council.

One of the key initiatives is the organization of clinical and research reflection groups, which serve as spaces for the exchange of knowledge and experiences between professionals and academicians.

These work groups are configured around a specific task, which is selected and defined by its members. This autonomy allows participants to address topics of common interest and relevant clinical challenges. Each group, by choosing their area of focus, contributes significantly to the research and development of best practices in their respective fields.

In addition to homework, groups are encouraged to appoint a spokesperson to serve as team coordinator. The spokesperson plays an essential role in facilitating communication and coordinating efforts within the group.

Clinical work groups

Link psychoanalysis by Janine Puget and Isidoro Berenstein (2023)

Responsible: Rocío Cabanzo (Bogota, Colombia)

Members: Felisa Perry, Dina Oren, from Israel Patricia Alcalde, from Peru Tatiana Páez, from Peru. María Soledad Dawson, from Argentina Ruth Levisky, from Brazil Manuela Porto, from Portugal Patricia Segurado, from Portugal Lucía Balello, from Italy

The linking psychoanalytic perspective, created by Janine Puget and Isidoro Berenstein, broadens the vision, opens the field of the possible, gives rise to the radically new.

Thought that arises from logics other than those of modernity and proposes other categories that are different and supplementary to the classic ones: such as the binding force of "between two or more", the alter and the alien, social subjectivity, discontinuities of time and space, the presentation and effects of presence, becoming other with others, interference, chance, indetermination, uncertainty, the radically new, among others.

The objective of this Clinical Theoretical Reflection Group is the study and deepening of this thinking and joint production.

Trilingual vocabulary of specific concepts of family and couple psychoanalysis

Responsible: Cristina Calarasanu (Romania)

Members: Thekla Kauch (France), Felisa Perry (Israel) Lea Setton (Panama)

To support its main objective, to promote and develop the different practices and theories of couple and family psychoanalysis, one of the most important characteristics of the AIPCF is its trilingual organization.

With the help of its scientific diversity given by the numerous associations that are part of the AIPCF, international exchanges between different practitioners are greatly encouraged, considered as communication tools between different traditional schools. In this way, the AIPCF offers new vigor to theoretical research to develop and update concepts, as well as supports theoretical-clinical studies, publications and scientific activities.

Clinical work groups

Throuple: new configurations of the couple bond - Changes in the ways of being a couple (2023)

Responsible: Roberta Gorischnik (Entre Rios, Argentina)

Participants: Melina Julia Nadal Zalazar; María Soledad Campo Caracoche; Paula Gimena Falcone Andrea Maria Razzetti; Maria Gisela Saint Paul.

The magma of social imaginary meanings regulates discourses, practices, desires and feelings, instituting the subjectivities belonging to a society at a given moment. The changes and transformations that the new realities impose on us in the ways of being, being and bonding in this 21st century, affect the couple as a social institution in continuous movement and transformation. Psychoanalysis and particularly, the linking perspective in psychoanalysis provides us with tools to rethink theories and reformulate practices, fostering experience in our clinic.

Multifamily Therapy (2019-2023)

Responsible: Norberto Mascaró (Bilbao, Spain)

Participants: Säida Sid, Souad Ben Hamed and Sophie Elliot; (Portugal) Paula Godinho, Carina Brito da Mana and Inés Pinto; (Russia) (Svletana Hiers and Olga Papsueva) Tamara Gerganlova, Tatiana Aneck, Alexandra Skack, Julia Bozhenko and a translator from Spanish to Russian; (Spain); Bilbao, Norberto Mascaró and Claudio Maruottolo.

In 2019 we started an online group on the study and reflection of multifamily groups (GMF). This group was made up of a dozen professionals (psychologists and psychiatrists) from different countries (Spain, Portugal, France and Russia), with practices in various public and private institutions that have generally little experience in this type of activity.

Meetings are bimonthly and last two hours. The work is based on the conceptualizations of J. García Badaracco who began with this therapeutic device in the scope of a psychiatric hospital in the city of Buenos Aires in 1960. The work in this modality tries to study its specificity and differentiate it from other therapeutic spaces. (group therapy, family therapy, bonding therapy, etc.) In these 4 years of existence we address theoretical and clinical aspects of the activity and continue in this line of work. The group is open to anyone who wants to join. We think we can reach 20 participants.

Clinical work groups

COVID pandemic (2020-2023)

Responsible: Irma Morosini (Buenos Aires, Argentina)

Participants: Bárbara Bianchini (Italy) – Rocío Cabanzo (Colombia) – Susana Casaurang (Argentina) – Graciela Consoli (Argentina) – MaríaGrazia Giachin (Italy) – Fabrizia Giusti (Italy) – Ondina Greco (Italy) – Donatella Lisciotto (Italy) – Manuel Liss (Argentina) – Giuliana Marin (Italy) – Fiorenza Milano (Italy) – Tatiana Páez Sanguinetti (Peru) – María Manuela Porto (Portugal) – Olga Ruiz Correa (Brazil).

The group has been working for 4 years and in 2023 it begins its fifth year. It is currently consists of 15 members, having grown this year from 11 members to 15.

We aim to investigate through surveys, interviews, session material, conversations, data studies, statistics and our own personal and professional experiences, how the pandemic has affected and is still affecting us. With a Reflection Group system we will be able to ask ourselves about the various aspects that this phenomenon has presented and continues to present in the Clinic, trying to explore issues that have not been sufficiently taken into account in terms of mental health in public policies. The main idea is to be able to contribute our knowledge and provide some help to health services in the form of advice and writings, reviewing what happened and is happening to families, couples and the community in general in the various countries of the world and how better prepared to face other scourges of this class.

During the first meeting of the year, which took place last Thursday, March 30, the new members were received, a few words of remembrance for Eduardo Grinspon who died in December 2022 were shared as a farewell, organizational issues were worked on and the experience was heard. clinic regarding the Covid pandemic by Donatella Lisciotto, with exchange of ideas between everyone.

In the following meetings (7/9; 14/12) the coordination ?????? plans to invite other professionals to share experiences and ideas with the aim of exchanging and writing about them a joint work like the one that was transmitted in the previous Congress of the AIPCF and which was published in the Journal.

"Social community work with couples and families"

Responsible: Patricia Alcalde (Lima, Peru)

Participants: P. Alcalde; I. Arias, E. Bernardini; Lila Grandal

It is a free and voluntary space aimed at vulnerable populations in Peru. A meeting takes place based on solidarity, bond and affection, through 3 devices supported by 25 therapists (Shelter in Abancay (highlands of Peru). San Columbano School in the district of San Martín de Porras in Lima, Línea listening.

Investigation groups

Research: Projective tools for family and institutional groups (2023)

Responsible: Alexandra Bernard-Vidal and Almudena Sanahuja (Besançon, France)

More and more institutions come into contact with families and/or members who suffer because of their symptoms. But as we all know, the institution functions as a mirror of the problems of the population it serves. In this sense, the care provided to these groups by a nursing team will have an impact on the psychological functioning of the institutional group. Based on these observations, the objective of this research is to propose an armed projective group clinic created in the psychology laboratory of the University of Franche-Comté, which allows the evaluation of these phenomena from an objective point of view, but also to initiate psychic work. group (mediation tools).

Research: Interventions and interpretations in couple psychoanalysis (2022-2023)

Responsible: Alberto Eiger (Paris, France)

Participants: Carles Pérez-Testor, Raffaele Fischetti, Lucia Balello, Deolinda Costa, María Laura Díez and Amélia Pimenta.

This Spanish-speaking research group began working in February 2022, with a work pace of one 90-minute meeting per quarter. The meetings were held virtually through the Zoom platform and at the time of this presentation a total of 6 meetings had been held. In the first phase of the research, the topic of interventions and interpretations in couples therapy was defined, as well as the methodology for group work, focused on tasks and promoting free association and spontaneity of the participants. Currently, the research group is consulting bibliography on the topic, as well as sharing free association work on some texts proposed by Alberto Eiger.

Choosing a relationship, chapter two in old age: between security and adventure?

Responsible: Dina Oren (Tel Aviv, Israel)

Participants: Felisa Perry – Iris Reshef Lerer, Smadar Ben Porat, Anat Ben Salmon, Miri Lange

How does one recover from a relationship that has ended, move into a new relationship, and have the ability to create a stable relationship after the old one has eroded? What is a stable relationship? What characterizes those who succeed and those who do not (those who reach the "giving point")? How is the choice of a spouse made the second time? Is it similar or different from the first time? Is the choice in old age more towards security and stability or towards adventure and passion? Research method?: 1. Exploratory research, 2. Qualitative research and 3. Quantitative research.

The general objective of this group network would be aimed at disseminating the journals, to sustain and disseminate the theoretical and technical transformations of psychoanalysis and to create an international database network.

In this way, we can form an exchange group to share the experiences and difficulties that magazines are going through, looking for alternative paths that take into account current changes.

INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF COUPLE AND FAMILY PSYCHOANALYSIS

The International Journal of Couple and Family Psychoanalysis has already celebrated ten years since its first publication.

It was born from a project by its first director, Anna Maria Nicoló, who had considered essential the creation of an editorial space in which the members of our Association, recently founded in Montreal, after a long incubation and preparation, could express their ideas, carry their clinical experiences and their lines of research so as to promote dialogue both among themselves and with other couple and family psychotherapists spread around the world

CALL FOR PAPERS

Number 30 - 1/2024 « Legal and judicial issues in couple and family psychoanalysis »

Separation, divorce, foster care or social services, medically assisted reproduction, gender transitions, intra-family crimes ranging from violence to murder will be the topics of this issue dedicated to the interferences between couple and family psychoanalysis and the legal system. The intervention of the law and its effects challenges clinicians in their work when they have to deal with them.

Deadline for submission of manuscripts April 15, 2024

Number 31 - 2/2024 « Transference, countertransference and interpretation in psychoanalytic work with couples and families ».

As fundamental technical aspects of psychoanalytic work with couples and families, transference, countertransference and interpretation are psychic materials which clinicians must constantly elaborate on and work through, based on their own theoretical orientation. Therefore, this issue aims to show how these fundamentals are addressed in contemporary clinical practice

REVISTA EDITADA POR LA ASOCIACIÓN PSICOANALÍTICA DE BUENOS AIRES

Psychoanalysis has disseminated the scientific activity of the Buenos Aires Psychoanalytic Association since 1979. In October 2016, the digital edition was added to the printed edition to broaden its horizons. It is Open Access. The Journal is a space for debate and review of clinical and metapsychological topics that accounts for the scientific and academic production of both its members and the movements that cross the field of our culture. It is proposed to reflect the discussions and controversies with a pluralistic nature, opening dialogue to other disciplines and other latitudes, especially with Latin America.

CONTROVERSIES JOURNAL

The journal Controversies in Psychoanalysis of Children and Adolescents is a digital, indexed, open-access, full-text journal, which has been published since 2007.

The theme of the magazine is the Psychoanalysis of childhood and adolescence, extending to family themes, research and case analysis, culture and psychoanalytic theory.

It publishes unpublished Referenced Works that are evaluated by an international tribunal of peers and Free Works, unpublished or not.

The publication frequency is semiannual.

It is open to the community linked to psychoanalysis that wishes to transmit and share its experience and thoughts, from a position that includes different theoretical lines.

PERMANENT CALL FOR PAPERS

The journal permanently receives works that refer to issues of Childhood and Adolescence, in two modalities: free works and referred works. It also receives works that respond to the dossier of each issue, announced in a timely manner.

For free jobs:

The free works cover a heterogeneous range of topics in Psychoanalysis of children and adolescents. It includes writings from various national and international theoretical-clinical lines.

For referred works:

The works must be unpublished (considering as such works not previously published in any language or format). They will be submitted to national and/or international review for anonymous evaluation, after which the authors will receive detailed information about said evaluation.

The Editorial Committee will receive the works, send them to the designated Referees and will subsequently notify of their acceptance, proposed modification or rejection.

The accepted works will be published in the next issue of the Journal or will be made available in a bank of articles ready to be published in subsequent editions, which will be reported to the authors.

INTERACTIONS JOURNAL

The basic element that inspires this Journal is the conviction that the individual is not an isolated structure and that identity and its formation are always multipersonal: the other, in short, is always present in the psychic life of the individual "and therefore "In this broader but unquestionably legitimate sense, individual psychology is at the same time, from the beginning, social psychology" (S. Freud). The other is always present in the psychic life of the individual and a fruitful source of research is the study of the interactions between the individual and the relational matrix that encompasses him.

In our opinion, the place that best allows us to study these processes is the therapeutic couple, the marital couple and the family. The focus on intrapsychic and interpersonal interactions and relationships constitutes an innovative perspective of observation and a true work methodology.

The magazine is published in March and October, and is edited by Franco Angeli, viale Monza 106, 20127 Milan tel. +39 02 2896293 who you can contact to subscribe.

LE DIVAN FAMILIAL JOURNAL

Le Divan familial is a journal of psychoanalytic family therapy created [in 1998] with the Société de thérapie familiale psychanalytique. Faced with the changes that are taking place in the modern family and the new types of psychological difficulties that individuals face, the magazine aims to offer a forum for reflection on theory and appropriate therapeutic responses. In each issue, psychoanalysts, family therapists and human science researchers share their views on a specific topic.

Money, couples, family

Money is rarely discussed directly in a meeting. It is through its use and its impact on family life that we discover its importance.

History and literature show that the same themes are repeated. The character of the miser is omnipresent, from Aesop's fables to the works of Shakespeare and Molière, or the novels of Dickens, Zola or Maupassant... All of these themes can be found in clinical practice: the dominance exercised by a pervert through the use of money, gambling and its addiction, compulsive spending by a spouse, disputes over inheritances, pocket money, but also the place that is given to money in the past, present and future, and the family conflicts that arise.

How can we treat family suffering caused by money problems in therapy? The potentially enormous number of money issues in the family should inspire varied and innovative theoretical and clinical work.

PSYCHOANALYSIS OF COUPLES AND FAMILIES JOURNAL

CALL FOR PAPERS

Issue 14(1), Spring 2024

Special Edition: Looking Away: Sexual Violence in Couple and Family Relationships

Edited by Damian McCann and Wayne Bodkin

Reinforcing growing concerns about domestic abuse figures, statistics from the UK's Office for National Statistics confirm that almost one in three women aged sixteen to fifty-nine will experience domestic abuse in their lifetime. Sexual violence in couple and family relationships remains hidden, often unreported and little understood. This concern is not limited to the UK, but is widely prevalent. This special issue focuses on understanding the nature, extent, causes, and treatment interventions related to sexual violence in the context of couple and family relationships.

PSYCHOANALYSIS & INTERSUBJECTIVITY JOURNAL

The journal Psychoanalysis and Subjectivity is a modern, dynamic, high-level scientific journal, whose greatest value is having created a favorable terrain to give birth to intellectual confrontations; This magazine represents a virtual and concrete place, at the same time of exchange and intersubjective communication in which psychoanalysis scholars from around the world meet, confront, debate and expose the fruits of their studies.

The issues that have been published up to this point have been characterized by containing articles that show diverse orientations and all of them very interesting. Our discipline, although it has been studied for many years, always seems relatively recent and is increasingly capable of creating new conceptual challenges.

The next issue is being prepared for its appearance in November and will feature interesting works by authors such as Marcos Bernard - Evelyn Granjon - Natalie Salzman - David Benhaim - among others.

APA PSYCHOANALYSIS JOURNAL

Support for the International
Journal Network (2020-2023)

The Psychoanalysis Magazine is the first psychoanalytic publication in the Spanish language in the history of psychoanalysis. Founded in 1943, it was designated as the official publications body of the APA. Published uninterruptedly since that moment, it advances the policy of openness that inspired its origins. Today the journal shares its complete issues with Spanish-speaking readers in digital version within the APA Web domain, which allows access to its content freely. The objectives of the Journal of Psychoanalysis are to disseminate psychoanalysis, promote its scientific development, research in the areas of psychoanalytic practice and theory, as well as make known the contributions of psychoanalysis to health and culture. You can consult the complete Collection of the Journal of Psychoanalysis (1943-present) in the APA Digital Library.

MENTALIZATION JOURNAL

Support for the International
Journal Network (2020-2023)

Mentalization. Journal of Psychoanalysis and Psychotherapy is published biannually and its access is free.

It's interests focus fundamentally on the work of representation, symbolization processes, modes and functions of thought, dreams and fantasy, in their relationship with the processing of impulsive and emotional movements, which take place in the interpersonal context.

The term mentalization aims to account, in a synthetic way, for these various processes, following the path traced by Pierre Marty, Wilfred Bion, André Green and the so-called contemporary psychoanalysis, the current developments of the Paris Psychosomatic School and the contribution of multiple authors. such as Judith Mitrani, César and Sara Botella, Antonino Ferro, Thomas Ogden, Peter Fonagy, etc.

VIRTUAL LIBRARY OF PSYCHOANALYSIS

Support for the International
Journal Network (2020-2023)

The Virtual Library of Psychoanalysis (BiViPsi) is a thematic portal specialized in Psychoanalysis that offers free access to its contents, products and services, constituting a centralized memory of international psychoanalytic literature, open to exchange with all fields of science, culture and community.

Allows the following online operations:

- >> Database searches.
 - >> Access to full texts.
 - >> Links to related institutions.
 - >> Consultations to the Librarian
- These characteristics make BiViPsi a relevant resource for students and researchers in the Psi field.

The BiViPsi integrates a database intended to preserve and disseminate the scientific production of the psychoanalytic institutions that are components of the Psychoanalytic Federation of Latin America (FEPAL) – International Psychoanalytic Association (API). It also incorporates and disseminates the publications of other external Psi Editors. It is also the only VHL (Virtual Health Library) in Argentina – and one of the first instances in Latin America – to implement since 2012 the application known as iAHx for the recovery of search results. This is an interface developed by BIREME/PAHO/WHO that shows bibliographic records in an integrated, individualized, typified and ordered manner by different criteria. It includes filters to narrow the search, organization of results by relevance, date, language and email export options, among other features.

WRITING WORKSHOPS

Writing workshops (in development)

The Study Center has been thinking about creating writing workshops in each of the three official languages of the IACFP: English, Spanish and French.

Several colleagues have experience in this type of activity, and we found it useful and enriching to propose such devices to all the therapists in our association.

Couple and family psychoanalysts, whether experienced or beginners, are accustomed to hearing and using the word, both in the course of the therapies they carry out and during professional exchanges, in order to share their practice and care about that of others.

From their initial training and throughout their career, scientific reading provides them with knowledge and feeds their thinking based on the theories, techniques and clinical experiences presented. We also know that everyday personal writing plays a role in the maturation of clinical work, and that professional documents are also necessary in institutional work.

However, each of us may wish to go beyond the usual and present our own views on topics that have captured our interest. In this case, it is about preparing a work that requires the combination of several parameters: The organization of thought is essential for the structure of a text, as is the theoretical coherence and clarity of the clinical presentation. Everyone has their own way of achieving it, and the whole thing improves if it is expressed in polished language. In other words, writing is as much a literary as it is a scientific activity.

Furthermore, the debates have led us to think that the groups would be more harmonious if they developed in the same language. It remains to be decided whether to opt for classic forms of writing workshop or more experiential groups.

In Portugal, the Poësis association already has a very advanced project aimed at Spanish and Portuguese speaking colleagues.

Liliana Levy (Argentine Association of Linked Psychoanalysis), who has extensive experience in writing workshops, will be the moderator of this first group.

Hana Salaam Abdel-Malek proposes an online experiential workshop, conceived as an analysis of practice.

We invite all interested colleagues to register in the language of their choice at the following address aipcf.centre.etudes@gmail.com

The Study Center will organize the groups based on demand.

Il convegno si propone di esaminare il complesso e articolato funzionamento mentale della coppia e della famiglia affrontando in particolare i profondi cambiamenti e le nuove configurazioni che, nel corso del nuovo millennio, ambiti così centrali della vita affettiva e relazionale stanno attraversando. Una riflessione che si articolerà attraverso i contributi scientifici di psicoanalisti che da anni sono impegnati nell'approfondimento di quest'area. Quali sono i desideri, le angosce, le fantasie, le difese che caratterizzano la coppia e la famiglia del nuovo millennio? Quali cambiamenti attraversa la sessualità? Un interessante e ricco dialogo a più voci grazie alla partecipazione di psicoanalisti di levatura nazionale e internazionale.

OBITUARIES

ROBERTO LOSSO

(Physician (Argentina-Italy). Teaching member of the Argentine Psychoanalytic Association (APA) and the IPA; cofondateur of the Association Internationale de Psychanalyse du Couple et de la Mille (AIPCF) in 2006 in Montréal (Canada) , co-organization of the International Congress in Buenos Aires in 2010, Honorary President of the AIPCF 2020 congress, he participated until the end of his life in the AIPCF scientific committee. He wrote several books such as: Mind and hormones. A psychosomatic approach to endocrinology (Ed. Teaching, 1983), Family Psychoanalysis. Theoretical - clinical tours (Ed. Lumen, 2001) and others in collaboration. We will keep your smile and your kindness with all of us.

Eduardo GRINSPON

Doctor, psychoanalyst. Founding member of the AIPPF and favorite disciple of David Maldavsky at the Institute of Higher Studies in Psychology and Social Sciences at the UCES (University of Business and Social Sciences). Lover of music and all forms of art, he shared concerts and tours through Europe and Argentina with many of us. He supported the creation and was an active member of the AIPCF Study Center, where he participated as coordinator of the Forum group and was a member of the Pandemic Group. His publications are numerous. In 2023 he participated in the collective publication «Sensory and hallucinatory in the psyche of the family and couple psychoanalyst», in the French group journal «We will preserve his vital drive and his clinical genius.

OLGA RUIZ CORREA

Olga, psychoanalyst and psychoanalytic couple and family therapist, passed away on September 20, 2023. She was born in Catamarca, a beautiful province in Argentina. Her family and friends had the idea of creating a WhatsApp group to honor her, since her different countries of residence (Argentina, Brazil and France) allowed her to weave multiple networks. Olga helped found the Société Française de Thérapie Familiale Psychanalytique and the Association Internationale de Psychanalyse du Couple et de la Famille. We have shared many conferences. The last one took place in Lisbon. His written work is extensive. He has written books, book chapters and numerous articles.

We will treasure your energy, your warmth, and your reflections.
